

This exhibition was held at Barstow school , Kansas City, Mo. following the hanging of five of my black line paintings on paper, gifted by writer Jamie Metzl and me in honor of Jamie's class reunion.

There were sculptures by high school students, wall sculpture by 4 year olds, group paintings and prints by middle school students.

There was a collage of paper butterflies each with a different suggestion of a kind act inspired by my words "Kindness is Contagious . Catch it ". A darling 6 year old boy showed me his butterfly with this message attached " Give cookies to the custodian".
